

Meter , W11-AD

URL:<https://www.sxplc.com/meter-w11-ad>

Product data sheet

This electric indicator (analog meter) is used to measure and measure alternating current and direct current by installing it in various electric and power facilities and devices, and there are W type wide angle type and S type square type depending on the shape. In particular, as a KS-certified product of the Korean Industrial Standards, its quality is maintained and guaranteed, and it is manufactured and sold by marking on the product.

Transformers for instrumentation are used by attaching them to the outside, and each specification is checked and applied.

